TRAINEE NETWORK

HiDA | HELMHOLTZ
Information & Data Science Academy

Are you a doctoral researcher or postdoc at a Helmholtz Center and work with data science methods?

Are you interested in learning what your colleagues at another of the association's centers are working on?

Do you want to publish in different fields, learn new skills and broaden your horizon?

... THEN THIS EXCHANGE PROGRAM IS FOR YOU.

The HIDA Trainee Network is an association-wide exchange program for doctoral and postdoctoral researchers who work at one of the Helmholtz Centers and whose research has a strong connection to (applied) information or data science. The Helmholtz Information & Data Science Academy (HIDA) financially supports up to three-month-long research stays at another center of the Helmholtz Association. Our goal is to spark collaborations between the centers and build an interdisciplinary community of data scientists.

+++ EXCHANGE +++

Visit another Helmholtz Center for up to three months, apply and expand your information & data science skills in an interdisciplinary context!

THE BENEFITS:

- FOR PARTICIPANTS: Gain interdisciplinary experience. Apply your data science skills at another center and bridge domains, learn new skills and expand your research portfolio.
- FOR HOST CENTERS: Benefit from fresh ideas and methods from other domains or your own, build collaborations with data science talent nationwide.
- FOR HOME CENTERS: Train your data science talent in new methods and skills from other research domains or your own, build collaborations with other centers.

THE GRANTS:

HIDA offers two funding options for trainee network participants:

- 1 RECEIVE FUNDING FOR TRAVEL AND MATERIAL EXPENSES:
For Helmholtz-internal doctoral and postdoctoral researchers with active employment contracts with one of the centers.
- 2 RECEIVE A RESEARCH GRANT: For scientists who already hold a doctorate degree and are affiliated with a Helmholtz Center (but are formally employed at a university or other partner organization).
